National Alliance to End Homelessness

The economy just doesn't work for a rapidly-growing number of Americans across urban, suburban, and rural communities alike. Wages that do not keep up with the cost of living, a shortage of affordable housing, a broken healthcare system, and a weak social safety net force people out of their homes and into homelessness every single week.

127,182 people enter homelessness each year in California.

WITHIN CALIFORNIA:

There are only 25 affordable rental homes for every 100 extremely low-income renter households.

Minimum wage earners must work 120 hours weekly to afford a two-bedroom rental home.

There are 4,993,000 people with unmet substance use treatment needs.

Mental health provider capacity meets only 23.5% of estimated community need.

Homelessness response systems are stuck between a rock and a hard place. They have become the default safety net for every other system's shortcomings — and they're being stretched beyond their limits.

43,760 people move into permanent housing each year in California.

WITHIN CALIFORNIA:

Emergency shelter capacity can only serve 31% of individual adults experiencing homelessness.

Available permanent housing can serve only 7% of people experiencing homelessness.
